

Policy Analyst – Building Rural & Remote Housing – Thunder Bay

Northern Policy Institute (NPI) is seeking a full-time Policy Analyst for a 12-month contract in Thunder Bay, Ontario. This position is ideal for those seeking a first position post-graduation or looking to bring their knowledge and experience to Northern Ontario.

The Policy Analyst will be responsible for exploring the challenges and opportunities of providing housing in rural and remote communities. This includes the potential to create housing products and services in rural and remote areas that can support affordable housing in urban centers or in other rural or remote regions.

Solid analytical and writing skills are a must. In addition to descriptive statistics, the placements will be expected to assess and explore potential policy implications and apply comparative evidence to support proposed policy changes, solutions, or directions. While a master's degree is preferred, those holding a diploma or a bachelor's degree (with some practical experience) should also apply. Bilingualism would be an advantage. Multilingualism, or a special knowledge of Northern Ontario, would also be assets.

Candidates are asked to provide a one-paragraph statement as to why they applied for a position in Northern Ontario. Applications that do not include this information may not be considered.

Northern Policy Institute appreciates all expressions of interest; only candidates who are to be interviewed will be contacted. The salary range for this position is $50,000 to $54,000 per year (plus benefits).

NPI values the ability to engage with communities in multiple languages. An increment of $1,500 over and above the base salary is available for those who can fluently speak Anishinabemowin, Oji-Cree, Cree, Michif or French, as well as English in a professional setting.
