NPI Likes Long Form Census Return

Posted on Monday, November 9, 2015 10:08 AM

A northern think-tank says the return of Canada's long-form census bodes well for policy makers in the region.

The Northern Policy Institute is singing the new Liberal government's praises, for bringing back the high-quality data in time for next year.

President Charles Cirtwill says the mandatory census tells us in a definitive way how things have changed over time, and supports the development of evidence-based policies.

He says if you don't have these census measures in place, you can't tell if what you did mattered.
